

NutrEvent is almost there | 6th edition | October 22 & 23, 2019 | Rennes

Main actors of the Food, Feed, Nutrition and Health sectors will gather at NutrEvent, the European event for nutrition & health innovation

It is in the heart of Rennes that the industrial and academic actors of the Nutrition-Health sector will gather on October 22nd and 23rd, for the sixth edition of NutrEvent, the European event dedicated to Food, Feed, Nutrition and Health. New this year: the concept of « One Health », one of the Grand Ouest's strong points, will be featured with a clear emphasis on innovation in the Feed sector.

NutrEvent, the meeting place for nutrition & health innovation

Since 2009, NutrEvent's position as the major platform for the key players from the Food, Feed, Nutrition and Health sectors. In response to the nutritional and health-related challenges of our societies, the challenge is to promote and accelerate R&D and innovation partnering opportunities. For 2 days, ingredient suppliers and distributors, finished food products and food supplement industries, academic stakeholders, R&D services and consulting firms, will meet to develop tomorrow's innovative products. The event highlights the expertise of professionals of the sector, promotes innovations & their funding and leads to partnerships. For this 6th edition, NutrEvent will gather more than 600 visiting professionals from over 25 countries.

A conference programme dealing with the market trends of the sector

For this 2019 edition, NutrEvent will include a track of conferences devoted to innovation between the Food and Feed sectors, based on the concept of « One Health » which bridges animal and human health. The first two tracks of conferences will allow participants to learn more about the best practices from the sector to develop their projects from research to innovation and from innovation to market. NutrEvent offers a broad programme dealing with the market trends, the recent regulatory evolutions and the sources of funding.

The plenary session will highlight models of sustainable innovations in nutrition to have a prospective dimension on the future of nutrition for the upcoming 5 to 10 years.

More than 65 international experts from research, industry and investment worlds, will share their vision and experience around these topics. Among them: Sara Colombo Mottaz (Nestlé Research CH), Rob Beudeker (DSM NL), Joël Doré (INRA FR), Martha Carlin (The BioCollective USA), Jens Legarth (The Fermentation Experts DK), Isabelle de Crémoux (Seventure Partners FR) and Mauricio Agudelo (Bialtec CO) and many others.
